The switch on the back of your modem sets your modem to operate on either Com1 or Com2. If you do not have another serial device, such as a serial mouse or printer, set the modem to Com1. Otherwise, set the modem to be different than the other serial device.

```
        ┌─────────┐                      ┌─────────┐
        │         │                      │         │
        │ COM 2   │                      │ COM 2   │
        │ ┌─────┐ │                      │ ┌─────┐ │
        │ │     │ │                      │ │ XXX │ │
        │ │     │ │                      │ │ XXX │ │
        │ │ XXX │ │                      │ │     │ │
        │ │ XXX │ │                      │ │     │ │
        │ COM 1 ┐ │                      │ COM 1 ┐ │
        │       │ │                      │       │ │
        └──┐    └─┘                      └──┐    └─┘
           └──────┘                         └──────┘
```
                        Com Port Settings

There is also a jumper on the board that will allow the modem to be configured as Com3 or Com4.  The jumper is labeled as shown below:

```
              ┌───────────────┐
              │   o       o   │   o
              └───────────────┘
```

              Com1/Com2   Com3/Com4
              (Default)

Changing the jumper will change the function of the switch. Thus, if the jumper is:

```
                   ┌───────────────┐
              o    │   o       o   │
                   └───────────────┘
```

              Com1/Com2   Com3/Com4

The switch settings become:

```
        ┌─────────┐                      ┌─────────┐
        │         │                      │         │
        │ COM 4   │                      │ COM 4   │
        │ ┌─────┐ │                      │ ┌─────┐ │
        │ │     │ │                      │ │ XXX │ │
        │ │     │ │                      │ │ XXX │ │
        │ │ XXX │ │                      │ │     │ │
        │ │ XXX │ │                      │ │     │ │
        │ COM 3 ┐ │                      │ COM 3 ┐ │
        │       │ │                      │       │ │
        └──┐    └─┘                      └──┐    └─┘
           └──────┘                         └──────┘
```

                        Com Port Settings

(smm 07/28/93)